LAFAYETTE VINSON, SR., ANSWERS FINAL CALL

WELL KNOWN CITIZEN, EX-CON-
FEDERATE SOLDIER, DIES
AT AGE 81.

On Tuesday morning at Glen Hayes, in Wayne county, occurred the death of L. F. Vinson, one of the best known residents of the Big Sandy Valley, and long prominent in business and political affairs in Wayne county. Mr. Vinson, who was past eighty years of age, had been in declining health for several years, though he had retained his physical and mental powers to a remarkable degree.

He was a member of a pioneer family and one whose connection with the development of the Big Sandy Valley is inseparably read into the history of that community. Lafayette Vinson was one of four brothers, all of whom lived to advanced years, and all of whom were prominent in the affairs of southern West Virginia and Eastern Kentucky. The other three died years ago in the following order: Frank Vinson, Lazarus Vinson and Col. S. S. Vinson, whose death at his home in Kelllogg, near this city, will be remembered by thousands. These four brothers were, in many ways, truly remarkable characters. Lafayette Vinson and S. S. Vinson, his nearest brother in point of age, were veterans of the Civil War, having espoused the cause of the Confederacy. They were men of intrepid courage. They came of a race and a time which knew no hardships and whose character were shaped in a measure to meet the stern necessities of their environment. The brother who died yesterday was one of the few men who remained to connect the present with the old order of things. His life extended back into the days when slavery flourished, when railroads were unknown in this section of the United States, and when most of the lands hereabout, even on the sites of Huntington, Ceredo and Kenova, were virgin forest.

Mr. Vinson spent the greater part of his active life in the timber business. He also maintained a farm in the neighborhood where he was born, and it was at this home of his young manhood that he died under the weight of years. A few years ago he resided temporarily on the Miller farm near Barboursville.

He was widely known, and had hundreds of friends among business and professional men. He was kindly in disposition, and his home was noted far and wide for the genuineness of its hospitality.

He is survived by two sons and two daughters. Blucher Vinson, who resides at Branchland; Mrs. Ira Smith, of the Guyan Valley; Mrs. David Williams, of Kelllogg, and Wellington Vinson, who lives at Glen Hayes. Among the near relations of Mr. Vinson are Col. J. T. Vinson, Dr. L. T. Vinson, Mrs. James A. Hughes, Mrs. Donald Clark, nephews and nieces, respectively, John P. Ratcliffe, and Dr. Richard Hardwick and Sam Dock Smith.—Huntington Herald Dispatch.

Mr. Vinson was well known and highly respected by his many friends in this city, where when he was in good health he was a frequent visitor. He has many relatives in Louisa, being closely related to K. F. Vinson, James Vinson, R. L. Vinson, Frank M. Vinson, G. R. Vinson and Fred M. Vinson. The funeral occurred with burial at the old home place on Wednesday morning. It was a Masonic burial and was under the direction of Mr. Vinson Lodge, Fort Gay. Those who attended from this place were George R. Vinson, H. E. Ferguson and F. M. Vinson.

TRYING FOR OIL

(Beattyville Enterprise.)
Unless all signs fail we will see some great things in the oil business in this county within the next few months. It is said that a great lot of land has been leased already and the agents of several companies are working along leasing more land every day. As soon as the weather permits test wells will be started in different sections. This county was tested about nine years ago when oil was found in several places near Primrose and also on Contrary and Lower Stufflebean. The first test by the Wallace Oil Company, of Beattyville, produced a fairly good showing of oil, but was afterward drowned by salt water. In the second well a tremendous flow of gas was struck. This well was plugged and even now the gas is escaping in sufficient quantities to burn when a lighted match is held near. These wells range in depth from 850 to 1,900 feet. In the Estill field, where so much work has been done during the past few months, oil is found at depth of about 450 feet. Of course we are only guessing at what lies hidden, but judging from the experiments of the past it looks like a safe bet that oil may be found here. At any rate we have been informed that the work will keep up this time until it is known for certain whether or not oil abounds.

MR. GRANT BLACKBURN

Mr. G. R. Blackburn, of this city, and Miss Judy May, of Pond Creek, were married this morning at 10:30 o'clock at the Wolford House on Fifth Avenue. The groom was 77 and the bride was 70. Rev. James Thompson officiated.

Mr. Blackburn is a well known citizen of this city and has a large acquaintance all through this section. The bride is of Kentucky and has a host of friends.—Williamson News.

Monroe Nickell, of Hazard, Perry county, will run for the Republican nomination for Congress this fall against Hon. John W. Langley who is now the Representative from the Tenth district.

Mr. Johnson, it is believed, will be the one to make the race. He is a prominent lawyer and a successful business man. Mr. Nickell is also a practicing attorney.

BANKRUPT SALE.

J. Isralsky, whose store has been closed a month or more by bankruptcy proceedings, has made an arrangement with his creditors which enables him to put on a sale to raise a certain percentage of the money. Read his page advertisement in this issue. Sale begins this morning and runs one week.

Mr. G. L. Walkenshaw and family, formerly residents of this city, and later of Cambridge, O., will go to Blair, Va., where Mr. Walkenshaw will conduct a coal operation of his own. The family, including Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Walkenshaw, has been here several days, awaiting the coming of the husband and father, when all will leave for their new home. They are at the Brunswick, Miss Elsie passing most of the time with her friend, Miss Nina McHenry. The Walkenshaws are very nice people, intelligent and highly respected. Mr. Walkenshaw is a good coal man, understanding the business thoroughly.

The NEWS wishes them success in their new location.

LUTHER MASON WALTER.

The Cincinnati Enquirer of a few days ago published Luther Walters' picture in connection with a complimentary article about him. He went from Chicago to Cincinnati and addressed a prominent meeting on the subject of interstate commerce. He has made the practice of law along this line a specialty and is regarded as one of the very strongest lawyers in the United States on this subject.

Mr. Walter is a native of Lawrence county, son of Mr. M. M. Walter, of Blaine, and for a short while was located in Louisa. These Big Sandy boys go out into the world and everybody else is forced to get off of the front seat. They are doing it so regularly that we fear these items do not thrill us like they once did, and our slogan is not heard so often, but here goes for this time—"Big Sandy Against the World!"

REV. MCLEODNEY AT PIKEVILLE.

Rev. L. E. McLeodney went to Ashland Monday to attend a missionary meeting and on Tuesday was called to Pikeville to assist in a revival. The father of the pastor, Rev. John Vinson, died Monday night, and this took him suddenly away from his meeting. Rev. McLeodney was called to fill the pastor's place. It is expected that Mr. McLeodney will return to Louisa in time to hold the regular Sunday services.

MONKEYING WITH THE MUSE.

My dear Mr. Editor:
Permit me to thank you on behalf of the poets of the Big Sandy who may avail themselves of the opportunity to sail in and win that New Jersey prize poetry money as set forth in my letter which you clipped from The Courier-Journal, and let me at the same time enter my solemn protest against the manner of your printing the quatrain which I introduced near the close of said letter. What I did say, as I recall it, was:

Ho, poets of Kentucky,
Your Pegasus prod
Along the passes of Parnassus
And swipe that Jersey wad.

Maybe I had an extra word in the second line of the original, for Pegasus is a darning unruly steed in the plural, but whether I did or not, here is the way the prize best eight-page weekly in Kentucky printed it:

Ho, poets of Kentucky
Your Pegasus now prod
Along the passes
And swipe that Jersey wad.

If you meant for your local poets to prod their Pegasus along the passes of Big Sandy and took it for granted that they would know it without your saying it, all right. Otherwise I shall confer with Attorney "Tip" Moore about a suit for damages after I have asked Dr. Wrote to make an examination and report on the extent of the damage. The Muse can not be mommied up in that style and nothing done in her behalf. The liberty of the press must be maintained, but it must not take too many liberties. There's a limit.

I might say more, but my counsel advises me to preserve a discreet silence for the present.

Very truly,
W. J. LAMPTON.
160 West 54th St., N. Y. City, Feb. 25.

Dear Col. Lampton:

We hasten to apologize and blame it on the linotype. The machine "done it." A linotype is no respecter of poets. It is too blamed mechanical to have any taste for poetry. It seems to take special delight in romping on "ponies" and spitting out shags whose lambs or otherwise feed on not mates. It does not hesitate to omit a few words just at the most important part of the plot. Without a blush it can do violence to the most beautiful word creations. Briefly, we may say that a linotype in a country office does a lot of surprising stunts.

You are liable to inquire as to the whereabouts of the intelligent proof reader, but please don't. Continue to favor us and we will promise to "hold copy" on the proofs.

MARRIAGE OF MISS ADAMS AND MR. McDYER

THE EVENT WAS SOLEMNIZED
WEDNESDAY AT HOME OF
E. E. SHANNON.

On Wednesday morning March 1st at the residence of the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. E. Shannon, this city, Miss Jeanne Adams, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Adams, was married to Mr. William Louis McDyer, of Frankfort. The officiating clergyman was the Rev. Mr. Powell, Rector of All Saints Episcopal Church, Portsmouth, Ohio, where the bride formerly resided. The beautiful ritual of the Episcopal church was used on this occasion and was rendered in a very impressive manner. Just before the coming of the bride party into the parlor Miss Josephine Harkins, of Prestonsburg, sang in a very beautiful way, "I Love You", the accompaniment of the very appropriate song being played by Miss Georgia Brown, of Jenkins. The approach of the bride and groom was marked by the playing of the wedding march by Miss Grace Wellman, of Catlettsburg. The ring service was used. The bride, always handsome, on this occasion looked more than usually beautiful in her traveling suit of blue. Immediately after the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. McDyer took the C. and O. for Cincinnati, from that place they will go to Louisville for a short stay and the bride will return to Louisa for a few days visit when she will rejoin Mr. McDyer in Frankfort which will be their future residence.

The NEWS has used so many superlative adjectives in describing the two functions which led up to this delightful affair that its stock is about exhausted. All that was said, however, was true, but their use leaves rather a poor supply for a proper description of the fair young woman who is leaving a home where she was all but idolized by her parents to make happy the home of her young husband, and that she will do this there can be no doubt. She is a young woman of many and varied accomplishments, not the least of which is her ability to adapt herself to any and all circumstances and to make a home in all that the world implies. As Jeanne Adams she was popular and attractive and it is safe to say that these two desirable qualities will not be lessened as Mrs. William Louis McDyer.

Of Mr. McDyer there is much to be said and all of it is that which is good. He comes of one of the best families of the State being a son of the late John McDyer, is a young man of more than ordinary intelligence, of excellent habits, and character above reproach. He stands well up in his profession as civil engineer and holds a good position in the department of highways of the State of Kentucky. During the happy period of his courtship he was, of course, a frequent visitor to Louisa and during that period made many friends. The NEWS figuratively sends a shower of rice and old shoes after this happy young couple with its best wishes for a long life of prosperity and happiness.

DEATH OF MRS. MARY ELLIOTT-HARRIS.

Word has just been received here announcing the death of Mrs. Mary Elliott Harris at Clarendon, Ark. Mrs. Harris was the last survivor of the John Lile Elliott family, being a daughter of Capt. John Lile and Jane Richie-Elliott. She was one of the two sisters of Judge Milton Elliott, a former resident of this city. She was famed in her youth for beauty and brilliancy. AS USUAL, IT IS NOT CATHERINE WINTERS

Newport, Ky., Feb. 19.—"This is not my daughter." One glance at the girl Lucy Atkins, who it was thought was the long missing Catherine Winters, was sufficient for Dr. W. A. Winters. He turned to a very much wrought group of spectators in the county judges office in Newport yesterday afternoon, and shook his head.

Dr. Winters has come from his home in Newcastle, Ind., a special request of the Campbell County Humane Society, which has interested itself in the case of Lucy Atkins, on the ground that she did not have a proper home.

The request to Dr. Winters to come here had been sent by Mrs. Raison after she had a long conference with Atkins.

FAIRBANKS WILL GET KENTUCKY'S VOTE

REPUBLICANS WILL CAST THEIR
LOT WITH INDIANA'S CANDIDATE FOR PRESIDENT.

The home of Felix M. See, five miles south of Louisa, on Lick creek, was destroyed by fire Thursday forenoon of this week. Nothing except one bed was saved. Only the women and small girls of the family were at home when the fire occurred, and when the flames were discovered the roof was almost ready to fall in.

A fire had been built in a room on the second floor and it is supposed a piece of the kindling wood popped out on the floor.

The loss is complete, there being no insurance. The building was a good country residence and the loss falls heavily upon Mr. See, who has a large family. He is one of our best citizens. Much sympathy is felt and expressed for this family.

GIRLS FOUR YEARS GARDEN COURSES

To meet the demands of thousands successful in raising a tenth-acre of tomatoes and who want to "go on," the representatives of the Department of Agriculture and the State college in charge of the canning clubs in the fifteen Southern States have worked out what might be called a progressive, four-year practical garden and canning course for year to year add new annual crops, encourage them to run winter and glass-frame gardens, and finally in the course of their work to lead them to plant perennial small and orchard fruits. It is hoped that under this system the girls will gain knowledge of how to handle a wide variety of garden vegetables and trees and gets ready to go to high school or college will have a garden of perennial fruits that readily can be cared for by other members of her family.

The first year of girl's club work through the Southern States consists in raising tomatoes in tenth-acre gardens. It is believed by those in charge that every girl should first master this plan and learn how to utilize or sell its products before she takes up other vegetables and fruits. In sections where tomatoes suffer from blight and wilt, however, it is sometimes necessary to substitute another garden crop.
